Telegram of Guilt Saves Scott's Life Through Reprieve

Execution of Alleged Slayer Stayed When Telegram Signed With Brother's Name Confesses Guilt of Sender—Authorities Investigating Authenticity of Message.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Ill., July 17.—A web of telegraph wires today took the place of the rope that hung before Russell Scott, convicted slayer of Joseph Maurer, Loop drug store clerk. He was literally snatched from the gallows by a last minute reprieve. He was to have been hanged this morning.

His life has been saved, for seven days at least. And in those seven days a battle dramatic to the last degree against almost insuperable odds, are sure they cannot only save his life, but win the freedom that they insist is his.

"Thank God," were Scott's first words when informed by Bishop Lloyd early this morning that hours of frantic communication from Canada and Chicago to Springfield and Kansas had been topped by the climax of a message purporting to come from Robert Scott, his brother, confessing the crime and stating he was on his way to Chicago to give himself up.

"Then, does my wife know? And my father? God bless them both. Now I can rest at last."
When Mrs. Scott, who has spent this night as well as many others in frenzied vigil and ceaseless effort to save her husband's life, was told that the reprieve had been granted and that Robert was on his way to Chicago from Detroit, she slumped forward in her chair as if fainting.

"I had given up hope," she said, "at our last meeting. Russell had said that he would always be near me. He told me never to forget him and that some time the truth would come out. I promised him that his children would be taught to revere his memory and that while there was breath in my body, I would fight for him."

The tidings reached Thomas Scott, who has worked hour by hour for the past week on the case, at almost the same moment the wife heard them.

"I felt morally certain that one of my sons would not stand back and let his brother go to his death for a deed he did not do," he said.
"I will fight for him the same as I have for Russell. I have not seen him for over two years, but when I get his story I will begin to make plans for his defense immediately."

The Scotts immediately got in touch with Miss Agnes Harmon, a former employee of Scott's, Windsor, Canada, who has been active in aiding the defense all the way through. Plans were being rushed through for a volunteer collection of $5,000 from Canadian citizens to be used as the nucleus of a defense fund.

"Delay hanging of my brother, Russell Scott. I will be in to surrender myself. I am the man who shot Joseph Maurer."

This telegram, received by Governor Small at Springfield, caused the executive to grant the last minute reprieve. The message was signed "Robert Scott."

It was learned at Detroit, from where the message came, that it had been given to a messenger boy by a young man "on Woodward avenue."

Democrats Have A New Leader

Special Democratic Meeting Harmoniously Takes Pledge to Support New Standard Bearer—Committeemen Bury Hatchet—Talk of Everything Except Jobs.

Undoubtedly having heard of the excitement, fun and fury of the unofficial Democratic county convention held last year at the Kingston Opera House when two factions of the party clashed, there was an unusually large attendance at the special meeting of the committee held Thursday afternoon at the court house when Judge Harry E. Schrick was named county chairman to succeed Roscoe Irwin, and Judge James Jenkins was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William G. Merritt as treasurer of the committee.

However, there was no visible discontent at the special meeting Thursday and a spirit of harmony prevailed.

The meeting was called to order by Secretary Henry E. McKenzie of Port Ewen, who asked if a Tennessee minister was present. There being none present he announced that the meeting would proceed without the formality of an opening prayer.

Mr. McKenzie, after stating the purpose of the meeting, launched forth on the first harmony speech of the afternoon and had talked but a few moments when he paused for breath, whereupon City Assessor William B. Martin seized the opportunity to name Judge John G. Van Etten as temporary chairman. Mr. McKenzie informed Mr. Martin that he had not completed his speech and Mr. Martin offered to withdraw his motion until the secretary was through, but this was not deemed necessary by Mr. McKenzie who put the motion and Judge Van Etten was unanimously elected.

Van Etten Talks on Leadership.
Judge Van Etten assumed control and stated that the purpose of the meeting was to act on the resignation of Mr. Irwin and if the resignation was accepted to elect a successor. He thanked the members of the committee for his election as temporary chairman and then entered upon the merits of Mr. Irwin who held the position of chairman of the county committee for some fifteen years. He spoke of the efforts exerted by Mr. Irwin and of his record as Collector of Internal Revenue under President Wilson. He pointed out the large attendance at the meetings as one of the evidences of the successful manner in which the organization was maintained under Mr. Irwin. He referred to the two great political parties, the Republicans and Democrats, and pointed out the necessity of having two parties. With one party such as in Soviet Russia the country would be at the mercy of those in control, one would be prevented from suggesting any improvement for the good of the country. If, on the other hand, every class, every faction or every crank was permitted to suggest and adopt ideas for government we would have political anarchy. A leader was needed in all branches of government from the president down to the election districts. He pointed to Governor Al Smith as the great leader of the Democratic party, leadership which was acquired by Smith through his efforts, hard work, honesty and courage. He referred to the recent debate between Governor Smith and former Governor Miller as the greatest debate since the Lincoln-Douglas debate just prior to the Civil War. Judge Van Etten urged the members of the committee to get together and elect Judge Coffey of Troy to the Supreme court bench this fall and also to put a Democratic assemblyman in Albany to assist Governor Smith in carrying out his programs.

In closing he urged the committee to elect as their local chairman a man who could unite the party and who could harmonize all differences in the party and lead the party to victory.

Irwin's Resignation Accepted.
Following the talk by Judge Van Etten the secretary called the roll of committee members and read the resignation of Mr. Irwin. Committee member Hartley moved that the resignation be accepted and the motion was carried.

Schrick Chosen Unanimously.
Thomas F. Coughlin, one of the younger members of the party, and one of the members who backed the revolt in the party at the unofficial convention last year, arose and very briefly outlined the qualities of Judge Harry E. Schrick whom he placed in nomination for the office of chairman. The nomination was seconded and Committee member Dunn quickly moved that nominations be closed. There were no further nominations and Judge Schrick was unanimously elected.

Schrick Takes Command.
Judge Schrick, then took command and briefly outlined the duties which every committee member faced in his district. At the unofficial convention this fall he urged every committee member to be present and instructed those present to return to their towns and tell the absent committee members that they were expected to be present at the convention. He suggested that they make efforts to get all the other members of the county committee out and if they refused to come he said it was high time for them to get out and elect committee men who would attend to the duty. He said proxies were wanted and he guaranteed his support in getting out the delegates.

Jenkins Succeeds Merritt.
The secretary read the resignation

Hit by Auto While Flagging Train

Flagman Sullivan at Katrine Railroad Crossing Brought to Kingston on Train He Was Flagging—Not Seriously Injured.

While John Sullivan of No. 132 Chambers street was busy flagging a West Shore railroad train across the railroad crossing at Katrine on Thursday afternoon, he was struck by an automobile whose driver was trying to get over the crossing ahead of the train, and was knocked unconscious.

The train he was flagging was stopped and he was hurried to Kingston where he was met at the West Shore station by the city ambulance and hurried to the Kingston City Hospital.

At the hospital it was found that while he was badly bruised about the body no bones had been fractured. After receiving treatment Mr. Sullivan walked out of the hospital and went home.

He is employed as a flagman at the Katrine crossing by the railroad. He said he did not know what automobile struck him as he was knocked to the ground unconscious. That he was not fatally injured surprised those who witnessed the accident.

Accused of Using Profane Language

Schall Alcon, who was slightly injured in the auto collision at the Central Postoffice earlier in the week, which also wrecked the safety zone, was arrested Thursday afternoon at the Rhinebeck ferry shed on Ferry street by Officer Robert F. Healey, who charged Alcon with disorderly conduct in using profane and indecent language in the presence of women passengers waiting for the ferry. This morning in police court Schall was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan and an adjournment was taken for one week. Bail was furnished by Alcon.

CAPTURED ARTILLERY GUN ASSIGNED TO MALDEN

Poultney Bigelow has received word from the Adjutant General of New York state that a piece of captured artillery has been assigned to Malden-on-Hudson. The calibre of the gun is 120 millimeters, non recoil, weight 4,500 pounds, and wholly of bronze. This trophy of the great war will be shipped so soon as the necessary papers can be signed and forwarded to Washington. Meanwhile Mr. Bigelow will gladly receive subscriptions of one dollar and upward towards the cost of a suitable platform, tablet and other necessary details. John A. Snyder of Saugerties has generously offered a free passage to this "heavy passenger" aboard one of his boats from New York to Saugerties.

Boy Had Leg Broken.
Raymond Warren, four years old of the Bronx, New York city, was brought to the Kingston City Hospital from Palenville on Thursday for treatment for a broken leg.

of Mr. Merritt which he said he had just received that morning by mail. Mr. Merritt said business would prevent him from continuing as treasurer. On motion of Committeeman James J. Murphy the resignation was accepted.

William B. Martin placed in nomination the name of Judge James Jenkins. There were no other nominations and Judge Jenkins was unanimously elected.

Judge Jenkins addressed the meeting, appealing to the members present to support Governor Smith in his various programs. He referred to Smith as a courageous, progressive, energetic and honest leader who deserved the support and confidence of all.

Mayor Block Promises Help.
Following Judge Jenkins, Mayor Morris Block was introduced by Judge Schrick and the mayor spoke briefly, telling the assemblage that he was not a speaker or talker, but pledged his support to the party. At this point Judge Betts, who had been referred to by previous speakers as one of the greatest local Democrats, came in and was called on to address the meeting.

Judge Betts Becomes Humorous.
Judge Betts proceeded to put some life and humor in the meeting by referring to many of the old time political fights of the Democratic party who shone at the time Judge Betts was a "house fellow" and actively engaged in politics. Judge Betts referred to many amusing incidents of the past and urged the present members of the party to carry on. He paid a glowing tribute to Roscoe Irwin and expressed his confidence in the new chairman, Judge Schrick, whom he referred to as a vote getter.

The meeting then adjourned.

Conference Preceded Meeting.
Prior to the meeting at the court house there was an unofficial gathering at the Elks' Club on Fair street which was attended by practically all of the committee men. What transpired there cannot be told but the peace and harmony in the meeting at the courthouse indicates that there had been some just conference between the committeemen and the flagman due up last fall at the unofficial convention had been buried.

Government Is Seeking to Avoid Hard Coal Strike

Government Doing All It Can to Prevent It—Meanwhile Wage Parley Between Operators and Miners Is Deadlocked.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Swampscott, Mass., July 17.—"The government is doing all that can be done to prevent a hard coal strike," declared Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today, following a three and one half hour conference with President Coolidge at White Court, the summer White House.

Secretary Davis said that the situation was gone over thoroughly but declined to comment further. He stated that he was sailing tomorrow for England, to be away until August 25.

Responding to a distinct manifestation of public alarm over the prospect of a general strike in the hard coal fields—an alarm in which he himself shares—President Coolidge today began the laying of his plans for concerted Federal action to prevent a repetition of the 1923 walkout.

President to Consult Hoover.
Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, long a close student of the economics of the coal situation, will be summoned to White Court next. To him, in all probability, will be entrusted the actual task of preventing a suspension of labor in the anthracite fields—a job undertaken two years ago by Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who, while able to effect an untimely settlement, failed to avert a strike.

Hoover and Davis have kept themselves fully informed as to developments at Atlantic City, where the operators and miners are deadlocked over the identical difference that failed of mediation in 1923. Both undoubtedly are prepared to offer President Coolidge concrete suggestions as to what the government should do to keep the men in the pits.

Strive to Avoid Coal Famine.
At their disposal will be every possible weapon of the Federal machinery. The president is determined that, if it is humanly possible, the nation shall not again undergo the disastrous ordeal of a coal famine with its accompanying shutdown in industries.

Wage Parley Deadlocked.
Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—While President Coolidge and Secretary of Labor Davis were conferring in Swampscott as to the government's attitude toward the threatened coal strike, the wage parley between anthracite operators and miners continued today with both sides "deadlocked."

Representatives of the miners maintained their attitude that the anthracite industry can well afford to meet their demands of a wage increase and have prepared to petition the government for an investigation of freight rates and coal merchandising methods.

Should Save, Say Miners.
"Coal costs $8 a ton at the mine and a consumer pays $15 a ton for it," declared Philip Murray, vice-president of the miners' union. "A saving along the line would provide for these wage demands of the miners and give the public a saving also on the price of coal."

Ingalls Speaks for Operators.
W. W. Ingalls, speaking for the operators, pointed out that the United States coal commission in 1923 urged such an investigation and the interstate commerce commission has already completed such an investigation.

"Rationalities and other features of the coal industry are not within the power of the commission, however," Ingalls said.

The operators reiterated that there would be no raise in the price of coal to the consumer, regardless of the outcome of the negotiations.

The joint committee adjourned at one o'clock today until next Tuesday morning.

Evacuate Ruhr By End of July

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, July 17.—The military evacuation of the Ruhr will be completed by the end of July, the foreign office announced today.

It had earlier been announced that evacuation would be carried out by the middle of August, that being the time limit embodied in the Dawes plan for continued military occupation of the Ruhr.

Kills Self in Cell.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., July 17.—Four hours before he was to face County Judge William T. Barrum for sentence on a second degree assault charge, George Roberts, 24, cooperator of this city, slashed his throat and breast in his cell. He died in Crozier hospital an hour later today.

McIntosh Will Not Proceed.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago July 17.—The will of William Nelson McIntosh, bequeathing the bulk of his fortune to William D. Shepherd, recently acquitted of a charge of killing young McIntosh, was not permitted to be probated by Judge Henry Horner of the probate court today.

P. S. C. Hears of 'Phone Rates

Ellenville and Liberty Subscribers Complain of Rate for Coin Box Service and Charge for Boarding House Service.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, July 17.—The public service commission held a hearing Thursday afternoon on the complaint of Jacob Benson and other telephone subscribers in Liberty and Ellenville central office districts against the rates charged by the New York Telephone Company for boarding house and hotel keepers' telephone service. The complainants charged that the average telephone charge for coin box service of $100 a year was charged as against a cheaper rate for other coin box service; that an air line zone charge was imposed on boarding house keepers; that an annual rate was provided where other subscribers paid monthly rates; and that the charge for boarding house service was nearly equal to all other combined.

The telephone company outlined the rapid growth of the summer resort business at Liberty and Ellenville, necessitating expenditure of more than $100,000 in new telephone equipment. It related the circumstances under which coin boxes were installed, for protection of subscribers as well as the company, and the manner in which the boarding house rates had been established.

The telephone company was represented by Paul A. Burns of New York and the boarding house keepers by Charles S. Aronson of New York.

Barn Destroyed By Lightning

During the heavy electric storm which passed over this section on Thursday evening, the large barn on the Charles Mertz farm, about five miles from New Paltz, on the Springtown road, was struck by lightning and destroyed. The barn was one of the largest in that section of the county and contained a large amount of hay, grain and farm machinery. The Mertz farm adjoins the farm on which a large barn was recently burned.

There were no stock in the barn at the time of the fire. On account of the nearness of other buildings word was sent to New Paltz for the fire apparatus, which responded, but on account of the slippery road conditions the progress of the apparatus was slow and the fire was beyond control when the engines arrived. They were, however, used to prevent the spread of the flames. Beside the barn a large granary adjoining was destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $5,000, with some insurance.

No Industrial Game Tonight

Because of the big benefit game tonight at the Fair Grounds between the Colonials and the D. and H. Generals the officials of the Industrial League have postponed the game scheduled between the Gas and Electric Company and the Schilling Furniture Company which was to be staged at the Athletic Field this evening. This cooperation on the part of the Industrial League will give the Industrial players and fans an opportunity of attending both games. The date of the postponed game will be announced later.

This game will be played at the Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Scientific Testimony Barred In Scopes Case

Presiding Judge Decides Expert Testimony Is Needed Only When the Ordinary Man Could Not Form an Opinion—Not Needed to Determine Whether Scopes Violated Law by Teaching Evolution.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., July 17.—With scientific knowledge barred from the legal clash between religion and evolution, the trial of John Thomas Scopes was adjourned today until Monday to permit defense counsel to prepare a brief of the excluded testimony for inclusion in the record so the case can be appealed to the higher courts.

This sensational development marked the last move of the modernist forces before submitting to the inevitable conviction of Scopes before a jury of his fundamentalist peers.

Defense Brief Is Unique Procedure.
This brief, unique in American jurisprudence, will include testimony from all the masters of sciences brought here by the defense but barred from the trial by ruling of President Judge John T. Raulston. In it a score of the nation's greatest biologists, zoologists and Bible students will voice their beliefs that evolution does not conflict with the Biblical stories of the divine creation of man.

When court convenes, the brief will be filed, defense motions entered to swell the grounds for an appeal and the case ended by Scopes's conviction.

Experts Not Needed, Says Judge.
The climax of the trial came and passed with startling swiftness when Presiding Judge John T. Raulston handed down a ruling excluding all scientific testimony from the trial. He held that the only question involved was whether Scopes taught a theory which denied the divine creation of man and that no "experts" were needed to shed light on it.

The court held that the testimony of the dozen scientists called here by the defense to reconcile evolutionary theories and "the Biblical story of creation would be irrelevant and incompetent."

It was a death blow to the defense's hopes for an acquittal of Scopes.

Defense Wins Minor Victories.
With defeat in this mountain court room staring them in the face, the defense won its first victory of the case. Over the harsh objections of state's attorney and after exchanges of personalities the defense was given permission to enter on the record the testimony of the experts whose opinions were not needed by the court or jury of farmers in deciding whether evolution conflicts with divine creation.

After another clash between counsel the defense won a second minor victory when the court refused the state's appeal for the right to cross-examine the witnesses. An agreement then was entered for adjournment of court until Monday, while the scientists hurried away to "the mansion" on a knoll overlooking Dayton to prepare their excluded testimony.

Charge Court With Favoritism.
This strange procedure was taken first to preserve the record of science on the appeal to higher jurisdiction and second, that the scientific theories on the origin of man might not "leak" into the jury's ears. It was done with frequent clashes and after Clarence Darrow, ranking defense counsel, had openly charged the court with favoring the prosecution.

When that occurred, an ominous sentiment spread throughout the court room. The spectators band forward in their seats, but the "bull dog" criminal lawyer from Chicago never flinched.

The judge's ruling had outraged defense attorneys. First, Arthur Garfield Hays, then Dudley Field Malone and lastly Darrow himself had attacked the decision.

Darrow was mad. Snapping his suspenders the Chicagoan growled: "It is strange that the court has excluded every motion made by the state and excluded every motion by the defense."

The court room was shocked. The state's attorneys were amazed. The judge stood facing Darrow, uncertain what to do.

"Does the attorney intend to renege on the court?" Raulston asked in a low tone.

"He has the right to decide that," snapped Darrow, looking the judge in the eye.

"The court has the right to do anything else," the judge said, calmly, but he didn't. He looked away and the storm passed without further damage.

Judge May Reverse Himself.
The session opened this morning with prayer as usual and then came the court's ruling. Later, when defense attorneys were objecting to the decision, the court announced that he found he had made a mistake.

Released on Bail.
Guy Hart of Shandaken, arrested on a charge of burglary in connection with the shooting of the Van Rensselaer estate, there has been released from jail, having furnished bail.

Hail at Ellenville.

Considerable hail accompanied the storm which swept the county Thursday evening. Near Ellenville the hail was especially severe.

PRISONER HAS NOT SPOKEN IN SEVEN YEARS

Lisbon Puzzled Over Man Who Holds Tongue and Refuses Freedom.

Lisbon.—Seven years without having uttered a single word, despite possession of his faculties, coupled with a determination to live in jail in preference to a life of freedom, have made Ivan Gluchosa known to everyone in Lisbon. He is a mystery to the police, who have on more than one occasion shown him the prison doors, and the people seemingly never tire of speculating why the voluntarily "silent prisoner" never says a word.

A policeman picked Ivan up one summer night in 1918, asleep on a park bench, and ran him in.

Papers Show He is Rumanian. Questioned, he refused to answer. Papers in his pockets gave his name and his nationality, Rumanian, and the fact that he had belonged to the crew of a foreign steamer that had left port the day of his arrest.

He got a few months as a vagrant. In jail he behaved himself, but never spoke a word. His time up, the prison authorities sent Ivan to the Rumanian consul, but not a word would he say. The perplexed consul sent him back to the prison, where he remained for three years quietly, peacefully and contentedly, but absolutely silent.

Doctors have pronounced Ivan normal in every way, and established the fact that he enjoys listening to the singing of birds.

Insults Fail to Stir Him. He has been insulted and abused in his own language and in most others, but he never showed he heard what was said.

Traps have been set for him, but all is of no avail. Ivan has determined not to speak.

At the end of three years the prison authorities gave this silent man a new outfit of clothes and a pocketful of money and set him free. But at the gate he shrank back and refused to leave the sheltering walls.

Four years have passed since then. Today Ivan is assistant prison cook, but he will accept no money for his work. Occasionally he goes out on business connected with the kitchen, but from these excursions he returns with manifestations of joy. He loves his job, he loves his prison home, and he finds joy in self-imposed silence.

French Law Case Dates Back to Charlemagne

Paris.—A law suit originating in the days of Charlemagne is being tried by the tribunal of the little republic of Andorra, now sitting at Perpignan, France. Charlemagne, returning from his Spanish expedition in 790 A. D., left as a rear guard protection against an incursion from the Moors into France, 1,000 soldiers on the south slope of the Pyrenees.

The emperor made land grants to every soldier, aggregating 150 square miles, which down to these modern days has constituted the Free Republic of Andorra, under the sovereignty of France. The dispute is over one of these land titles, and it has been the subject of litigation for longer than 1,000 years.

The money expended in costs through successive trials is said to amount to more than ten times the value of the land itself.

Illinois Farmer Saves Girl From Enraged Wolf

Wilmington, Ill.—Farmers of this township staged a hunt in the hope of capturing a pair of wolves that have been plundering poultry yards. William Steen, a farmer of this vicinity, hastened to the rescue of Miss Oelia Sallion when she was attacked by a wolf. Miss Sallion happened to notice a cub wallowing in the newly plowed field and thinking it was a dog picked it up. The mother of the cub, which had been hovering near unobserved, made a rush for Miss Sallion and she might have been severely bitten but for Steen, who seized a club and beat off the enraged animal. Steen did not have a gun with him and the wolf then made its escape.

Burglar Goes to Sing Sing for Ninth Time

New York.—Even the best of burglars sometimes make mistakes. This was admitted by Charlie Hill, seventy-four, as he was led from court to begin a seven-year term in Sing Sing for possessing burglar tools. This trip to Sing Sing is Charlie's ninth. He got the habit of going there away back in 1914, and hasn't since been able to get over it. By his own admission, Charlie "always has been a first-class burglar"—with the exception of these nine mistakes.

EX-BANDIT CABIN NOW RADIO CHURCH

Rendezvous of Desperadoes Sanctuary of Miners.

Tonopah, Nev.—In the hills near the new gold mine of Gilbert, 30 miles from here, is an old stone structure known as the Outlaw's cabin. It has stood for 50 years or more. Many tales are told of this rendezvous of the desperadoes who once infested the desert country. It was here they gathered to plan their stage holdups and periodic raids on the scattered settlements—or to divide the booty, an occasion that often ended in a bloody fight. Many bullet scars in the walls and dark streaks on the floor testify to the former character of the place.

Recently the name of the cabin was changed to the Radio church. The discoveries of gold in the surrounding hills lately, bringing a stampede of prospectors, provided a new use for the old landmark. Every Sunday evening it is filled with those who listen in on a sermon delivered several hundred miles away.

Some of the grizzled old-timers are a bit bewildered at the rapid march of progress, but gradually they are becoming used to radio talks and concerts in remote places, to prospecting with an automobile instead of with a string of burros.

Indian Bride Paddles to U. S. to Find Mate

Detroit.—Cupid, the cherub charged with the destiny of romance, will be perched on the desk of Immigration Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd when Vera Cassel, an eighteen-year-old Indian maiden, tells of her love for a Spanish sweetheart that led her across the Canadian border in violation of the American law.

Vera lived with her people on the Canadian Indian reservation on Walpole Island. One day a "panish visitor came to the reservation. Vera met him and Cupid did the rest. Then he disappeared.

That meeting occurred in the summer of 1924. In September, Vera fled the reservation and, slipping through the immigration barriers, sought her sweetheart in Detroit. But before her quest was rewarded she was arrested and returned to the Canadian authorities.

All through the winter she walked the shores of her island home, dreaming and planning a way to return. Finally, a month ago she appeared in Algonac. Immigration officers believe she paddled across the lake in an open canoe. She hurried on to Detroit and once more started her search. She was recognized on the street by a federal officer and taken to jail.

Now she will not only face deportation, but will have to stand trial for violating the immigration laws.

The federal officers say Vera also uses the name of Edna Isaacs. They have been unable to learn the name of her mysterious Spanish sweetheart.

Brooklyn Trolleys Allow Girls and Men to Smoke

New York.—Girls, you'll simply have to hand it to Transit Commissioner Le Roy T. Harkness.

All on account of him you can compose yourselves in the rear seats of open-face trolley cars, take your cigarette packages out of your vanity case and puff away.

Mr. Harkness announced the transit commission had granted a request of the Brooklyn City railroad that smoking be permitted during the summer months in the rear parts of the new type of center-exit trolleys.

Mr. Harkness said: "Formerly women generally objected. Now, I doubt that the majority of women would object. It is probable that a sizeable number of them would like to avail themselves of the permission now given to smoke in the rear of the cars. If they so desire, I know of no law against it."

Mr. Harkness also observed: "Some years ago smoking was allowed on the last car of elevated trains. This practice was done away with.

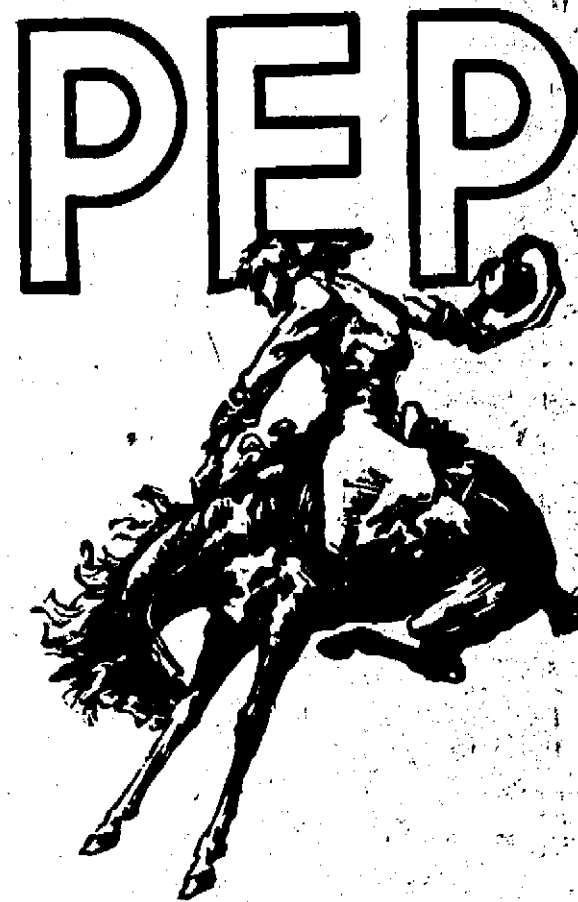

Puppies Chase Hen "Mother" From Barnyard

Springfield, Mass.—A Rhode Island Red hen that adopted a litter of beagle puppies on the nearby farm of J. W. Cessan has been disabused of her theories regarding puppy culture, for the pups, it was learned, have turned against their foster mother. Dead to her mother's chicks, they have chased her from the barnyard, forcing her to take refuge in the hen run.

Her adventure, however, has not been without benefit to her, for where as she had been destined for the chopping block, Mr. Cessan has decided to allow her to live out her normal life.

Karakul

The Karakul sheep takes its name from Kara Kul (black lake), a village in the eastern part of Bokhara, a province in central Asia. This province, which is a protectorate of the Russian soviet republics, comprises about 85,000 square miles. The number of sheep in this territory is estimated at from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 and the annual exports of lambkins are known to average about 1,500,000.

Delicate Plant

Sweet corn, the kind that is in demand during the green-corn season, is a delicate growth, subject to many plant diseases. It is beset with so many difficulties that where the seed is permitted to ripen only about one-fourth will germinate when planted. The greatest care is required in producing the supply each year for seed, growers being compelled to give it special attention.—Ohio State Journal.

Unified Faculties

We talk of faculties as if they were distinct, things separable; as if a man had intellect, imagination and fancy as he has hands, feet and arms. This is a capital error. We hear of a man's intellectual and moral natures as if these were divisible and existed apart. This is a necessity of language: at bottom these divisions are but names. Man's soul, his spiritual nature, is essentially one and indivisible.—Carlyle.

ALASKA INDIANS STILL CLING TO TWO WIVES

Native Marries Woman Older Than Himself to Do Work and Younger One to Bear Children.

New York.—Alaska Indians in some instances still have two wives, an older one to do the work and a younger one to bear the children, according to Miss Marie E. Faldine of Juneau, who is in New York attending a child welfare conference. She is a Red Cross public health nurse, and has organized public health work in southeastern Alaska.

"The practice of having two wives is no longer common," said Miss Faldine, "but it is an old-established custom and is done under cover. The residual effects are seen in the fact that the Alaskan native generally marries a woman older than himself."

"Alaskan natives in the southeastern part of the territory live in villages of huts, rudely built, and in many cases in tribal huts. In the northern part the tribes are wandering, living in tents in summer and in their igloos in winter."

"In the region where I have been working the tribal marriage customs are very strict. No member can marry a woman in his own tribe. An Eagle may marry a Raven or a Bear, but he is forbidden to mate with an Eagle."

"The Alaskan native is stoical and almost morose. He does not smile and call a greeting the way the Eskimo does, and seldom speaks. The natives are notably kind to their children, however."

"Squat in build and with slanting eyes, the Alaskan native is oriental in appearance. They make their living by fishing, largely, and live on fish, seaweeds and berries. Their language is almost impossible to learn. They have no negatives in their speech."

"If a native eats bread he buys it, for the native woman does not know how to make it. Occasionally they make an unleavened bread, and they are adept in the art of cooking flapjacks."

Fall Returns Acrobat to Mother He Thought Dead

Paris.—Some few days ago an acrobat performing in a theater in Paris fell from his trapeze and, together with his companion, was badly hurt. But it is an ill fall which brings no reward. Due to this accident the acrobat has found his mother whom he believed dead, and a family separated 17 years has been united.

A certain M. and Mme. Salson were dining in the little shop where M. Salson worked as a shoemaker. M. Salson was reading the paper. Suddenly he became pale and quickly tried to hide the paper. Mme. Salson became worried, took the paper and read: "Two acrobats badly injured," and the name of one of them, "Victor Buhour."

It was her son by a former marriage whom she had left with her first husband after obtaining a divorce. For 18 years she had been able to find no trace of him, and when inquiries were made in the city where her first husband had lived, it was reported that both he and the son had died. It was an accident bringing it to the front page of every Parisian paper that told her he was living still.

At the hospital, where she immediately rushed to see him, she found he would recover. His story of the separation was much like hers. After the death of his father he had tried to find his mother, but, unable to get any trace of her, had come to believe that she was dead, and had had no idea of her second marriage and consequent change of name.

Americans Partial to Old Dutch Windmills

Amsterdam, Holland.—Native lovers of old Dutch windmills have been much gratified and encouraged in their efforts to preserve the characteristic feature of the Dutch landscape, by the lively interest taken by American newspapers and magazines in the reports that many historic mills were threatened by demolition, or might be displaced by prosaic oil or electrically-driven machinery.

"The Dutch Mill," the society which aimed at the preservation of the familiar skyline of the classic Dutch landscape, has received many sympathetic inquiries from Americans regarding the fate of the windmills.

One letter from Topeka, Kan., asked for a specification of a typical Dutch mill, with the object of erecting one there.

"Red Mike and Violets"

Favorite Dish in New York

New York.—Corned beef and cabbage is the favorite dinner dish of most New Yorkers. If the poll just completed by the United Restaurant Owners' association gave an accurate picture of the metropolitan appetite. Of the 180,000 votes cast, "Red Mike and Violets" as the succulent dish is known in less ornate restaurants, led with more than 23,000. Second on the list of preferences was "vegetable dinner" with 18,549, while third place went to real cutlets and fourth to Long Island duckling.

Boilers Hatch Eggs

Masters of Short Story

No one is in a position to say which nation has produced the greatest short story writers. Russia, France, England and the United States are united for literature of this class. The French regard Edgar Allan Poe with special esteem and some of the French critics credit him with being "the father of the short story."

Proper Use of "Brogue"

It is correct to speak of a person having a German brogue, a French brogue, or an Italian brogue, but the term "brogue" is most often applied to the dialect accent with which some Irish speak English. "Brogue" itself is of Irish or Celtic origin.

Phoenix Players Please Patrons

Members of the Women's Committee of One Hundred for the Phoenix Players report that a rare treat was accorded them at the home of Mrs. E. C. Reed in Saugerties Wednesday, when a series of scenes from "Twelfth Night" were presented by the players. In the charming setting and background of one of Ulster county's most beautiful gardens, Miss Ethel Griggs, Miss Haroldine Humphries and Edward Cooper were the artists who delighted an enthusiastic audience, using the lawn as a stage, and the hedges and flowered archways for entrances and exits. The combined power and tenderness of Miss Griggs' expression and the magnificence of Miss Humphries' personality won their hearers to repeated outbursts of applause.

Captain Stanley Howe announced that the failure of many pledges to materialize had resulted in the diminution of a pledged membership of 750 to an actual membership of 550, and several members of the committee agreed to revive their efforts during the next week in a final spurt to establish high-class educational entertainment as a practical summer season possibility in Ulster county. It was announced that subscribing members who join too late to see the final performances of "The Importance of Being Earnest" this week, will have the privilege of getting two reserved seats for the second play, "Foul is Fair," which opens next Monday night, and one reserved seat for "The Mistress of the Inn," which opens two weeks from Monday night.

Among the women who have recently joined the Women's Committee of One Hundred are Mrs. Morris Block, Miss Katherine Millard, Miss Jean Ester, Mrs. Eloise Lovett and Miss Tillie Fongartz, of Kingston, and Mrs. George Washburn of Saugerties.

A party of twenty-eight young women representing the Kingston Y. W. C. A. were the guests of the Phoenix Players at their performance last Tuesday evening. They have reported their enthusiastic approval of the character of the dramatic work of the players and under the captaincy of Miss Jean Ester have joined in the campaign going forward to build up the membership.

2. What is the leading lesson taught?
3. Which is the best verse?
4. Who are the principal persons?

It Is Not Too Early to Consider Velvet—Expected to be the Fable de Luxe.

Enter, the velvet gown! It is predicted that autumn will bring with it an unprecedented demand for velvets, both as a part of the ensemble and as a material for all sorts of formal—and some informal—gowns. A beaded or studded velvet expresses formality as nothing else quite can. Hence is responsible for the model sketched, which is noteworthy because it so charmingly demonstrates that even such ostentatious materials may be kept young. This is even more remarkable because of her choice of color, using one of the several violet shades. The beading is done in crystals of a deeper violet.

Renée Creates a Beaded Violin Velvet Gown.

Velvet is not to be kept out of the scene until cool weather. Already any smart restaurant or promenade will produce a quota of velvet hats, usually purple and everybody recognizes the velvet coat, launched by the way, last season at Deauville, as one of the conspicuous successes of the season.

That the ensemble will carry on—not only into another season, but has come to stay—is the opinion of most of those who study style from the merchandising angle. The mode is classic enough to be practical, and certainly no one can gainsay the elegance of a costume which is correlated. Many evening wraps are lined with or made entirely of metal cloth, and a novel involving metal is made also with wool, and is expected to be much in demand. (Copyright, 1925, Fairchild.)

OUR DAUX PATTERN.

A Charming Frock for Many Occasions.

5061. Beaded or embroidered chiffon or crepe de chine would be attractive for this model. The beading may be omitted, as shown in the small view, or the sleeves may be plain in the large view.

The pattern is cut in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. A 16-year size with beading and a 20-year size without beading. Each dress will require 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. Without beading, the dress will require 2 1/2 yards. The width of the skirt at waist is 36 inches. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamp to the Pattern Department, The Fairchild Fashion Service, N. Y. Be sure to give the size wanted.

Did I Ever Look Like That!

Many a woman after taking BURKE'S COD LIVER OIL and IRON TABLETS for a short time has looked at her old photograph and asked herself that question: "Did I ever Look Like THAT?" Sometimes the results are so amazing that it is hard for her to believe that she is the same person. In the place of scrawny angles she sees beautifully rounded curves of solid, healthy flesh. That tired nerve-racked look about the eyes has gone and in its place there is sparkle and magnetism. The undernourished tissues now receive the proper amount of nutrients and the entire figure and carriage reflect the vivacity of glowing health and womanly vigor.

You can improve your appearance in the same manner. You do not need to be thin and underweight. You can have the good health, vitality and proper amount of flesh on your bones that always distinguishes the beautiful woman.

And with this increased vitality you will note that the skin becomes clear and glowing with life—imperfections like pimples, acne, sallowness, etc., will disappear. Firm well-rounded flesh will take the place of wrinkles and sagged muscles.

The new scientific method of presenting the body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil in tablet form makes it possible for thousands to get the benefit of this great tonic who never before have been able to take it because of its nauseous fishy taste. Now all this has been changed. Cod Liver Oil has been combined with iron and other health-giving ingredients to form the quickest weight-builder and strengthener known in all medicines.

Just one concentrated tablet of BURKE'S COD LIVER OIL and IRON taken three times a day with meals will bring amazing increase in your bodily vigor and marked changes for the better in your appearance. These improvements will be noticeable in a very short time—in most cases within a few days. This condition of better health and greater strength will not leave you—it will be permanent and lasting as you continue this wonderful vitamin treatment.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS

Pansy Purple Has a Past. The vogue of purple has been so pronounced this spring and summer, that the reason for its popularity seemed of sufficient interest to look into. Many believe that it is a graceful homage to the Holy Year being celebrated at Rome.

While there are many purples liked, pansy shades are most often chosen, and it is found that these shades were frequently the rage during the nineteenth century.

There are purples and that's for the fact. The color, and the flow, because of their form and markings, were often likened to a wistful face. According to an old belief in England, purple was dropped in the sea, and made the sea turn purple with the first creature that swam in it.

Thompson, a Greek writer, is the first one known to mention the purple, about 300 B. C., as growing both wild and in the gardens of Greece and Asia. In 1623 it was one of the ornaments of English gardens, and early English and Scotch colonists brought these seeds to America. It was Miss Mary Bennett, daughter of the Earl of Tankerville at Wallingford, who first began to raise them in 1810, and developed the colors and shades.

Favor Traffic Law Enforcement

Great Mass of People Demand Rigid Enforcement, Says Col. Barber—Most Accidents Caused by Reckless and Incompetent Drivers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, July 17.—"The pub-

He wants vigorous and effective enforcement of the traffic laws and regulations," according to Col. A. B.

Barber, director of the National Conference on Street and Highway

Safety in an address to the international Association of Chiefs of Police here. "There may be a few here and there who object when it comes home to them personally," Col. Barber declared, "but they are insignificant in comparison with the great mass of the people who, more than anything else, are demanding rigid enforcement in the interest of safety of the streets and highways."

A leading police official, Colonel

Barber said, in opening a recent conference for the solution of traffic problems stated that "the matter of highway transportation with safety has become a veritable nightmare to police executives. Traffic in some form or other has come to claim the major portion of the police commander's time and it is altogether appropriate that a conference of serious-minded persons should assemble from time to time to discuss traffic conditions and by study and interchange of views reach constructive remedies through which the growing evils resulting from the rapidly increasing traffic may be met and eliminated or at least be minimized."

"This statement," declared Colonel Barber, "seems to me not only a frank recognition of the solemn responsibility resting upon the public authorities for the safety of their people on the streets and highways,

but also it points the way to a practical method through state and local conferences of developing widespread cooperation on the part of all concerned. Secretary of Commerce

Hoover took the lead in this when he called more than a year ago the first National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. The second of these conferences will be held in Washington late this fall.

"Police chiefs, city magistrates and other municipal officials were associated in this first conference with state highway officials and motor vehicle administrators, with the railroads, with the automobile manufacturers, with the automobile trade associations and firms, with safety councils, insurance companies, women's organizations and educational associations, with engineering and technical associations, city planners, labor organizations, national welfare associations, automobile clubs and taxicab owners.

"These groups of directly interested persons constitute a very large proportion of our total population. I have recited them to show you what a very large interest—its addition to the general public itself is working with you to reduce the great number of traffic casualties and lesser traffic accidents."

Colonel Barber gave an interesting example of what can be done in reducing traffic hazards by citing the record of the railroads in safety work. About 1905, he said, there were each year about 500 deaths to passengers on steam trains. During the last two or three years there were about 200 each year. The railroads are still working, he declared to reduce this number. Expressing these results in terms of passenger miles traveled on steam trains and in the same terms regarding motor vehicles.

Colonel Barber said that the average person traveling on a steam train is about ten times as safe as the average person traveling in a motor vehicle.

"If these average figures look bad for the automobile," Colonel Barber declared, "we can find some hope from the fact which I believe investigation shows that a large portion of the accidents are caused by a very small percentage of reckless and incompetent drivers. It may be expected in the course of time that this class of unsafe drivers may be killed off and the problem thus solved. This would, however, be a slow process and in the meantime these reckless and incompetent drivers are bringing disaster to large numbers of other users of the highways who are neither reckless nor incompetent, but who on the other hand are entirely innocent of traffic violations.

"The lesson to be learned from the experience of the railroads in developing safer passenger train service is that results can be obtained by persistent effort, directed not at any one point alone but at every element that constitutes a hazard. I believe that the results which you are all seeking in reduction of traffic accidents can be obtained by a similar campaign carried on all along the line. This will require organization and insistent attention to safety measures, the introduction of regular system into the traffic movement, constant improvement of the motor vehicles and their equipment, the establishment of uniform regulations throughout all the states with regard to all essential matters, careful licensing of drivers to reduce the number of unreliable and incompetent, relentless enforcement of the laws and regulations to restrain those who would abuse the privileges of the streets and highways, revocation of licenses in serious cases with a properly organized system of follow-up as between the various jurisdictions, and finally a widespread system of education of all classes involved. This is a large program but some such program must be carried through."

"Cultuur" for Coffee

Java coffee gained reputation in days when the plantations in Java and Sumatra were owned or indirectly controlled by the government of the Netherlands Indies. Under the "cultuur" system of forced cultivation coffee was bought by the government and held in storage for several years for mellowing. Overseers received special compensation for the production of coffee of high quality. It was not until 1878-1879 that all cultivation by the government was discontinued.—New York Times.

Paulina was the wife of Seneca, the celebrated Roman philosopher. She bravely insisted on sharing her husband's fate, when he was condemned to die by order of the mad (and bad) emperor, Nero. Her veins were accordingly opened at the same time, but as she fainted from loss of blood, Nero commanded her wounds to be bound up and conjured her to live. She survived her husband but a short time, leading a melancholy and bitter existence until her death in the year 65 A. D.

SAINT'S SEWING MACHINE. The first sewing machine patent recorded was granted to Thomas Saint, an Englishman, by the British government, 135 years ago today. Saint's machine had none of the features of the latter successful contrivances, but it had one fatal defect: It wouldn't sew.

The inventor who first devised a real working machine for sewing was Bartholomew Thimmonier, a poor tailor of St. Etienne, France, who obtained letters patent in his native country in 1830. In Thimmonier's apparatus the needle was crocheted, and descending through the cloth it brought up with a loop of thread which it carried through the previously made loop, and thus formed a chain on the upper surface of the fabric. Thimmonier got nothing for his invention, and $0 of his machines, which he had installed in a factory, were wrecked by a furious crowd of workers who feared they would be thrown out of employment. It thus remained for Elias Howe, an American inventor, to perfect and market a really practicable machine.

"GERRYMANDER." The first use of the word "gerrymander" was in 1812, and ever since the term has been in common use to designate "an arbitrary, unnatural and unfair arrangement of voting districts, designed to favor one political party or candidate." He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a member of congress for several years, governor of Massachusetts from 1810 to 1812, and vice president of the United States from the latter year until his death in 1814. It was while governor of the Bay

Russians Reject Ragged Clothing

"Devilish Pride of Students Prevent Them From Accepting Gift Clothing Sent from the United States."

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Moscow, July 17.—Moscow has a new conflict, this time between "the Christian patience of American benefactors" and the "devilish pride of Moscow students," whose representatives have stamped as "unwearable" the gift clothing remaining here in the hands of the American Student Relief agent.

Under the title, "The Great Republic and the Torn Trousers," the mentors of the Moscow student body editorialize on American generosity in the columns of Labor, organ of the trade unions.

Americans, it is asserted, have forbidden, in some States, the teaching of the Darwinian theory of evolution. Americans, also so it is said, have heard that Moscow students, believing in Darwinism, have resolved to return to the habits of their prehistoric ancestors, and walk the streets naked, or clothed only in gymnasium trunks. To combat Darwinism, then, the Americans sent clothes to Russia.

But, continues the exponent of Russian gratitude, "among many Christian virtues, the American benefactors are not strangers," of course, to thrift. Everyone understands that Moscow is not New York and that the Tverskaya is not Broadway, and that the disheveled Moscow student does not resemble the elegant gentleman from Yale University.

Wornout Clothes Sent.
"One or two holes in the trousers can't hurt the Moscow student. So a great transport of wornout trousers and coats, with torn elbows, was sent to Moscow."

"But, alas," the American benefactors, over-full of their Christian sentiments did not take into consideration the moral decay of the Soviet students, who, without much discussion, refused the gifts of the overseas philanthropists and stamped them "unwearable."

"But the heirs of the American philanthropists, in spite of a thick layer of fat, radiate all Christian virtues, among them, patience. This lofty virtue could not be vanquished by the devilish pride of the Moscow students, and the 'unwearable' was answered by a new transport of ragged clothing, which, also, met the stereotyped 'unwearable'."

"Such is the state of things now which will carry the day in this fight? The Christian patience of the American benefactors or the devilish pride of the Moscow students? The future will give an answer."

Everything is in readiness for the ice cream festival to be given by the Y. W. C. A. girls on Saturday evening on the court house lawn. MIXED COURT IN CHINA EXPELS SOVIET AGENT

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Shanghai, China, July 17.—Fresh complications in the Anglo-Soviet situation were foreseen today when British Assessor Whitmore, sitting with a Chinese magistrate in the Mixed Court, disregarded official Soviet protests and ordered M. Dosser, agent of a Soviet company, expelled from Shanghai.

He was found guilty of conspiring to incite disorder, and was given two weeks to wind up his affairs and get out.

The decision by the British and Chinese magistrats was made in the face of protests by George Tchitcherine, Soviet foreign minister, and the Soviet ambassador, M. Karakhan, who held that the mixed court was without jurisdiction to try the Soviet citizen.

Dosser's arrest by the British last week had been made the subject of a sharp note by Tchitcherine to the British government.

Jackie Coogan

The Kid Himself

A New orphan waif on the sidewalks of New York... a friendless boy in a great metropolis. What a story for this brilliant juvenile star! A story of tears and sunshine. The drama of a lad who matched his wits against Fate. You'll call this picture the greatest human drama ever flashed on the screen.

JACKIE COOGAN
says: "I am proud of my new picture, because it's the story of a real boy who faced life with a smile. All the world loves that kind of a boy."

CHARLES DANA GIBSON

CHARLES DANA GIBSON is probably the most popular black and white illustrator in America. He has several other distinctions—among them, that of having created a type of girl that stood for all American young womanhood, and of having received more money for a single pen and ink sketch than any other American artist.

He was born September 13, 1867, in Roxbury, Mass. His taste ran more to light, humorous illustrations, than to the producing of immortal works of art. So he began his career by contributing some drawings to Life. He became a favorite almost at once. The "Gibson Girl" was all the rage; the Gibson shirt-waist and skirt were worn by every one; and people tried to look like the pictures. His type was an attractive, healthy sort, square-shouldered, well-developed arms and a slim boyish grace—the sort of girl that is a delightful chum.

So much in demand were his drawings, that a large weekly magazine gave him $50,000 a year for a double-page drawing every week. A series of them, the "Adventures of Mr. Pipp," created so much amusement, that they were made into a play. They showed the trials of a hard-working father of a family whose wife and daughters tried to make him live the same life their society friends led.

Mr. Gibson made one attempt at more serious painting, and went abroad at the height of his popularity to study color and oil work, but found his old medium the best, so gave up the painting.

WHO SAID

"For he who fights and runs away May live to fight again another day."

THE rest of this quotation of which Oliver Goldsmith is the author, reads: "But he who is in battle slain, Can never rise and fight again."

Oliver Goldsmith was born in Ireland in 1728. His father, pastor of a small church, earned barely enough to support his little family, but succeeded in sending his son to Trinity college, Dublin. In 1749, shortly after his father's death, Goldsmith left college and prepared to enter the ministry. He was about to enter the clergy when the Bishop of Elphin, who was his examiner, refused to pass him—probably because of his knowledge of the youth's wildness.

Goldsmith now became tutor to a wealthy family, but soon lost this position through a dispute with the master of the house over a game of cards. Following this episode he was ready to sail for America when he changed his mind and allowed the lent to sail without him. His uncle came to his rescue and gave him 50 pounds, about $250, with which to go to Dublin and study law. He went to Dublin, but never studied law there as he lost the money his uncle had given him in gambling.

Despite his repeated imprudences, he was again rescued by his uncle and sent to Edinburgh to study medicine. Here he remained for 18 months and acquired some knowledge of medicine, but never took a degree. From there he went to London, where he continued his studies at the expense of his uncle.

His best known works, "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "The Deserted Village" achieved instant popularity, and brought him a considerable return. He hesitated a long while before accepting his royalty of $500 for the "Deserted Village" for fear that the publisher would not make sufficient to cover his expenses! Goldsmith died in London, April 4, 1774, in debt more than $10,000 but the best loved literary man of his generation.—Wayne D. McMurtry.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE PLEASING VOICE

AT NO period of our existence does the pleasing voice with its musical intonations and lucid articulations fail to win an audience and respect.

There is a compelling charm in its accent, its deliberative sweetness and enunciation which is well-nigh irresistible, whether it praises or condemns—a carrying, impressive quality which sways the hearers at will.

And yet with all the subtle power invested in the organs of speech, men and women in their oral intercourse with one another are habitually careless.

They have a few set words and phrases which go round and round their dial of conversation like the hands of the clock, incapable of doing anything else, or of stirring a single new pleasurable emotion.

Such voices narrow and dampen the spirit of expectant hearers until they wish they could go suddenly deaf or vanish in the air.

Whether the rasping discords come from the lips of vestals or scullions, the effect produced is always "creepy" and depressing to the refined.

And this would seem to show the importance of a pleasing voice at the fireside, the desk, behind the counter, everywhere, in fact where tired ears are pausing on tip-toe for a soothing sound to assuage their pent-up nervousness.

If you would succeed beyond the mediocre, you will find that it behooves you to cultivate the pleasing voice, not one that is marked by affection, but by sweet soul-strains attuned to discriminating and delicately adjusted ears accustomed to pure accent and undue emphasis.

Nothing is more destructive to a salesman's success than a loud, coarse and brazen enunciation, with a touch of authoritative command in every vowel and aspirate.

And this applies not only to the salesman but to every man and woman in all walks of life, and especially to those who are dependent on others for a livelihood.

The discriminating employer naturally gives preference to him or her who habitually uses a pleasing voice in company with a kindly smile and courteous manners, in all kinds of weather and in all sorts of business.

Lightning Causes Staatsburg Fire

Bolt Struck Barn on Huntington Estate During Electrical Storm, Destroying Cottage, Coach House and Barn.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Thursday evening while the electrical storm was sweeping over Kingston and vicinity a bolt of lightning struck a large barn on the Robert P. Huntington estate at Staatsburg, setting it on fire. Before the flames could be controlled the eight room cottage attached to the barn and the coach house nearby, were totally destroyed by fire which could be plainly seen from this city. The loss is estimated at approximately $100,000.

The cottage was occupied by Eugene Martin, chauffeur for Mr. Huntington, and at the time of the fire his wife, who has been ill in bed for three weeks, their two children and her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Cramer, and her two children, were in the house. Mr. Martin was working outside when the bolt struck the barn. When he saw the flames he rushed to his home, wrapped his wife in the bed clothing and carried her from the house while Mrs. Cramer gathered the children together and they all sought shelter from the storm in another building some distance away.

After seeing that his family had been placed in safety Mr. Martin sent in a hurried telephone call to the Staatsburg fire department. The Rhinebeck and Hyde Park firemen also responded to the call for aid but owing to lack of water pressure it was found impossible to save the buildings.

Mr. Martin lost all his household effects in the fire that destroyed his home. There was also considerable hay and valuable farm machinery in the barn that was destroyed by the blaze. Two automobiles and a truck in the coach house were looted out and saved.

Mr. Huntington was not at home at the time, but his wife was at home in the main house, about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the fire.

The buildings destroyed were of stucco and had been designed by Mr. Huntington, who is a member of the firm of Hoffin, Cone and Huntington, New York city architects, who designed many buildings in New York and vicinity and also designed the Episcopal Church at Rhinebeck.

Assuredly Wild

They were walking in the country and admiring the beauties of nature. "Oh!" she cried, pausing. "Look! A flower. Do you suppose it is a wild flower?" He was the kind of chap who believed in never admitting ignorance on any subject. He glanced around and at length replied: "Yes, without doubt it's a wild flower. There isn't a house within half a mile!"

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 17.—Today's stock market was again an active affair, with prices generally higher, but shortly after noon some reactions were in evidence.
There was some profit taking in the Pacific utility group. Montana Power declined 1/4 to 87 1/2 and North American Company dropped 1/4 to 57.
But a majority of stocks were on a firmer basis. Consolidated Gas gained nearly 2 points to 89. Montgomery Ward at 60 1/2. Sears Roebuck at 176 1/2 and American Can at 203 1/2 climbed to the year's best levels.

In the rails, Southern Railway and St. Louis-San Francisco furnished impressive leadership, both forging to the highest levels of their history. Southern Railway sold at 101 1/2. Frisco at 85 1/2.
Steel shares supplied a sensation in the steel group, advancing 3/4 to 97 1/2. United States Steel after moving up to 119 1/2, declined to 118 1/2.
Activity in oils, one of features of the forenoon, fell off later, most of the buying being confined to industrial and other issues.
Motors were reactionary during the forenoon but reacted later, making fractional gains. Mack Truck was up 1/4 to 186 1/2. General Motors up 1/4 to 89 1/2 and White Motors up 1/4 to 74.
Copper stocks held firm.
General Electric advanced four points to 290 1/2. U. S. Steel Pipe gained 1/4 to 161 1/2. Radio Corporation declined 1/4 to 56 1/2.
Baldwin Locomotive dropped 1/4 to 114 1/2 and American Car and Foundry was down 1/4 to 103 1/2.
Call Money advanced to 3 1/2 percent in the second hour, a fractional gain from the opening rate.

Coolidge Reviews Yankee Division

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Camp Devens, Mass., July 17.—The twenty sixth (Yankee) Division, 6,500 strong, was all slicked up today, ready to pass in review before President Coolidge.

As Governor of Massachusetts, Mr. Coolidge had welcomed the national guard unit home from service overseas in the World War.

Once before the famous fighting division was reviewed by a president—by Woodrow Wilson at Montigny-Le-Roi, France.

This afternoon's review was a more happy affair. Marching in "lin" hats, carrying packs and with bayonets fixed to their rifles, the division will pass before President Coolidge on the vast parade ground. Massed bands will play continually during the hour it takes to pass the reviewing stand.

University in Honor of Bryan

Dudley Field Malone Offers Set of Darwin's Works—Other Gifts Include Two $1,000 Subscriptions and Twenty Acre Site.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., July 17.—Funds are being raised for the erection here of a fundamentalist university in honor of William Jennings Bryan.

The fund was started by two $1,000 contributions from Earl Robinson, in whose drug store the evolution trial started, and H. H. Frasa, president of the town's largest commercial house. Dudley Field Malone, defense attorney and a legal toe of Bryan, offered a set of Darwin's works while J. F. Benson, a farmer, gave 20 acres of land on which to build the institution.

The promoters also received an offer from George F. Washburn, Clearwater, Fla., to contribute $10,000 toward a $250,000 fund for erection of fundamental universities throughout the country. No action was taken on Washburn's offer because he made it contingent on the town getting 24 more contributions of the same size.

Birthdays.
At the home of James Pierce, 44 Sterling street, an evening of music was enjoyed Thursday, the occasion being the celebration of the twenty-first birthday of George Pierce, grandson of Mr. Pierce George Pierce and his father, Osborn Pierce of New York city, are spending their vacation at the home of the elder Mr. Pierce. Thursday evening the birthday of the grandson was celebrated in fitting style by this musical family. Major James Pierce, Civil War drum major, was one of the jolliest of the party, furnishing music on numerous instruments. Among those who assisted in the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wood and son and Mrs. Maben. Several cornet solos were rendered by Mr. Wood and a thoroughly good time was enjoyed. Major Pierce, one of the boys of '61 and still an active musician, has toured the United States on several occasions, having been a member of the famous old soldier "fiddling" team which met with such success on the vaudeville stage as well as under the Chautauqua tent.

Rondout Yacht Club Dance.

Swiss Cheese Handled by Community Factory.
Each year in the valley of Justistal in Switzerland the Kastellet is an event of prime importance, as that is the occasion when the production of cheese is distributed from the community factory to the owners.

The plan there is to have each home owner bring the supply of milk each day to the factory, where it is manufactured into cheese, the product being kept and ripened in the great storage houses.

A record is kept of the supply of milk each patron brings, then at the end of the summer season the settlement is made, the event being known as the Kastellet, or the division of cheeses, some patrons taking away wagon loads, others having but a small number, possibly enough to supply the family needs, but buyers are on hand to bargain for all surplus stocks left. The custom is for the people of the valley to turn out to the distribution—Ohio State Journal.

Pity the Poor Groom.
June is the luckiest month—the month of weddings. For the wedding is one of the occasions in life when the women have all the best of it, says the Youth's Companion. The whole ceremony revolves about the bride; even the bridesmaids outline the groom and attract a share of public attention greater than his. No man is wholly at ease at a wedding—whether he appears as participant or as spectator; whereas no woman is without a certain passionate interest in any wedding, however humble. "The deplorable groom," an American humorist has dubbed the man without whom there would be no wedding. If he is negligible, the other men in the assembly must be suitably interested.

Hold Man Who Resembles Knapp

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lima, Ohio, July 17.—After a chase of more than 100 miles two Lima policemen and Ben Miller, head of the National Detective Agency, today apprehended a man suspected of being Philip Knapp, alleged "thrill slayer," wanted in New York state for the murder of Louis Penella, taxicab driver.

The suspect resembles in every way the description sent out of Knapp. He was unable to give a clear account of his movements during the past month and admitted having come from New York state.

The capture was made at Wabash, Indiana, following a tip from a Lima man who had been motoring through Fort Wayne, Ind., and noticed the suspect and his machine in that city. Wabash police have wired New York police for more complete identification of Knapp and are holding him as a suspect.

Ask Indictment Against Knapp.
New York, July 18.—With the trail of Philip Knapp, alleged "thrill slayer," cold army authorities at Mitchell Field announced they would no longer conduct an independent investigation but would turn over all their information to the police.

Knapp, who deserted from Mitchell Field, where he was an aviation student, on July 1, is charged with the murder of Louis Penella, a Hempstead, L. I., taxicab driver, whose body was found on a lonely road on July 4.

The Nassau county grand jury, meeting today, was to be asked by District Attorney Charles R. Weeks to return an indictment against the fugitive.

ROUTERY

COMMERCIAL GRADES FOR MARKET EGGS

William H. Lapp, of the Iowa Agricultural college, in a circular gives the following description of the ordinary commercial egg grades:

Extras—These are eggs weighing from 24 to 28 ounces to the dozen and are uniform in size and fairly uniform in shape and color. They must be free from heat or germ development. The air cell must not be larger than the size of a dime.

Firsts—These are eggs weighing from 22 to 24 ounces to the dozen, uniform in size, and fairly uniform in shape and color. They must be free from heat, with an air cell not much larger than that of an extra. The shell must be sound and clean.

Seconds—These are made up of light stains and dirties, heated and stale eggs, also small eggs or any others not classified above but edible.

Checks—These are slightly broken eggs.

Cracks—These are generally classed with checks.

Leakers—Leakers are broken eggs where the liquid is escaping.

Rejects—These are the eggs unfit for food.

In securing eggs that will class as “extras” or “firsts,” Professor Lapp suggests that the following points be kept in mind:

1. Take pride in the eggs you sell.
2. Keep a flock of good standard bred stock. Hatch only large, select eggs.
3. Keep nests clean and plenty of them.
4. Do not keep eggs in a place above 60 degrees temperature.
5. Keep litter in house clean.
6. Separate males from flock as soon as hatching season is over.
7. Do not market small, inferior eggs. Use them at home.
8. Do not wash dirty eggs if they are intended for market.
9. Keep eggs covered when taking them to market.
10. An egg is generally good quality when it is produced. Don't help to deteriorate the quality. Market eggs often.

One difficulty in the way of the Iowa farmer in working for higher grades on eggs is that in a great many cases higher grades are not rewarded by proportionately higher prices, due to the indiscriminating attitude of some local buyers. The co-operative egg selling associations of Minnesota and Missouri have found that the quality of the eggs handled goes up very promptly after the returns for the first lots have been received. As soon as farmers are sure that they are going to get premiums for their high quality, their percentage of “extras” and “firsts” goes up markedly.

Grasshopper as Food

Popular in the East

Every one knows that cats catch grasshoppers and eat them with great relish, though housewives will tell you that they grow thin on that diet. Fabre, the famous naturalist, believes that grasshoppers and similar insects would be palatable food for human beings, too, and in one of his books, says Mr. Percy F. Bicknell, he is quoted with approval, this passage from General Daumas' book, “The Great Desert,” explaining in a footnote that the grasshopper (caterpillar) referred to is more exactly the cricket, which must not be confused with the true grasshopper:

“The grasshopper is good eating both for men and for camels. Either fresh or pickled, it is eaten after the feet, the wings and the head have been removed; the rest is broiled or else stewed and served up in the form of meat balls. After being dried in the sun it is ground to powder, which may be stirred into milk or made into dough and then fried in fat or butter with salt.”

“Camels greatly like to eat grasshoppers, which are served to them either dried or after being roasted in a heap in a large hole, between two layers of live coals. The negroes also eat them cooked in that way.”

“The Virgin Mary, having asked God for some meat that should have as blood, He sent her some grasshoppers.”

“The wives of the prophets, when anyone sent them a present of grasshoppers, always shared them with the other women.”

“The Calif Omar, one day when he was asked whether the use of grasshoppers for food was permitted, replied: ‘I should like to have a basketful of them to eat.’”

“From all this testimony it is clearly evident that by the grace of God grasshoppers were given to man for food.”—Youth's Companion.

Rutabaga's Introduction

The rutabaga is said to have been introduced into Scotland about 1781-82, and into England in 1790. It is mentioned in 1806 by MacLachlan as in American gardens, and in 1817 there is a record of an acre of the crop in Illinois. The vernacular names all indicate an origin in Sweden or northern Europe. It is sometimes called hanoover, as one variety was grown in Hanover, Germany.

Necessary to Have Eggs

Clean in Fowls' Nests

It is necessary to have the eggs clean in the nests, because washing eggs takes time and also removes the natural bloom. One common cause of dirty eggs is the habit of pullets roosting in the nests. This can soon be broken up by going through the houses just after roosting time and removing such birds to the roosts. Spending a few minutes in the houses just at sundown to frighten the pullets from the nests will teach them to select another roosting place themselves. Then they are most apt to go back to the regular roosts each night.

Walking on dirty dropping boards is another cause of dirty eggs. Some poultrymen nail strips of two-inch mesh wire under each roosting section. This permits the droppings to fall through to the boards but keeps the hens from walking on the boards. They have to hop from perch to perch and then down into the litter and will have cleaner feet when going on the nests in the morning. The mesh of the wire may be fine enough to catch any eggs laid during the night and save them from breaking.

Poultry Facts

Provide plenty of oyster shell in addition to grit.

Sunshine keeps chicks growing rapidly. Give them plenty.

A chicken doesn't drink very much at a time, but that's no sign that it doesn't need any water.

Tuberculosis in poultry causes an unthrifty condition, especially in the older birds. They get poor and thin, lose flesh rapidly in most cases, and many of them get lame.

If one is not careful on mash feeding there is danger of getting the chicks off feed by giving too much.

The first six weeks of a chick's life is the most critical period. The largest per cent of losses occurs during this time.

Plenty of shade should be provided for growing chicks. When allowed to range in an orchard or cornfield, they will not only find ample shade and green feed, but will benefit the trees or corn by destroying bugs and worms.

Many Sought Widows

The mayor of Grimsby, England, published a notice in the local paper that he had received a letter from a widow asking him to help her find a second husband. In a few days he received more than 200 letters applying for the “position.”

Record Crowd And Good Game

Expected Tonight at The Fair Grounds When The Colonials Meet The D. & H. Generals In Big Benefit Game.

The future of the Colonial Baseball Club will be decided tonight. It will be possible for the Colonials to play the balance of the season only if the fans turn out tonight. There is a great deal to gain and nothing to lose, for if the Kingston fans are out tonight they will be able to enjoy good baseball for the balance of the 1925 season. A good team has been selected as a drawing card, the D. & H. Generals, who are top notchers when it comes to semi-pro baseball.

If the fans fail tonight the Colonials will go down in history as a club that played a brand of ball to attract major league teams and then was not backed by fans. But the officials of the club are optimistic of tonight's turnout and expect the result to be in favor of keeping the team on the field.

The Generals are an outfit that will draw a crowd if any team will. The railroaders have a choice of Freddie Rossback and Bill Dillard to lead the attack against the locals tonight. Then there will be the General's catcher, Kelly Herbst, a hitter who no Kingston fan can forget. Paul Kinney will be the local moundsman. Paul has been resting since Sunday and will turn the trick tonight if any pitcher can.

What will the sentence be? It's up to the fans.

WORKMEN'S SICK AND DEATH BENEFIT FUND TO PICNIC

COMMISSION REVERSES DECISION OF REFEREE

By Telegram to The Freeman. Philadelphia, July 17.—Boxing fans today were in a turmoil over the first case on record by which a state athletic commission reversed the decision of a licensed referee. The official was Arthur Nolan; the principals Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Tommy Loughran, local light heavyweight; the occasion a ten round bout at Shibe Park last night.

Nolan gave the decision to Delaney, after the judges had disagreed and 15,000 fans showed a disposition to riot. It was the majority opinion of the milling spectators that Loughran had won.

They were placated only when Fred White, of the Pennsylvania Commission, more than an hour later announced that he had reversed the official verdict and called the bout a draw.

THE CHANNEL SWIM.

American Girl Swimming Star in Severe Test.
By Telegram to The Freeman. Brighton, England, July 17.—Gertrude Ederle, 18 year old American swimming star, renewed her training efforts today, determined to accomplish what no woman has done and what baffled plucky Lillian Harrison yesterday—the channel swim.

Miss Harrison, who came from Buenos Aires to make the attempt, gave out when but eight miles from Dover. The cold water sapped her strength, in her eight hour struggle.

Miss Ederle will have a double fight on her hands, according to old channel swimmers. She must conquer not only the cold waters and cruel cross-tides of the channel but her own tendency to swim too fast.

"We must break down her pace," said Jacob Wolfe, veteran swimming champion who is training the American girl. "She swims 28 strokes to the minute and we must reduce it to 24."

Tickets Selling For Chautauqua

The Chautauqua program which is scheduled to begin July 24 is particularly interesting and instructive. The Kiwanis Club which also backed this program last year is finding many people securing their tickets for this season's program. Chautauqua the country over has proven successful and the Swarthmore Chautauqua in particular has a unique program for the season of 1925. While different Kiwanians have these tickets for sale yet a number of them, both senior and junior, can be procured at the Y. M. C. A.

The program for the juniors is of especial attraction and considering the fact that so many boys and girls enjoyed the program of the previous year it is expected that the demand will be even greater for 1925. All parents who are acquainted with the work of the Chautauqua are asked to call the attention of their children to this year's program. While a Chautauqua costs many hundred dollars to produce it is encouraging the note that the junior ticket will admit all boys and girls under 14 for only one dollar for the entire course. It is money well spent and the boys and girls who attend will be instructed as well as thoroughly entertained.

The Chautauqua includes the dates from July 24th to the 30th.

LEGION WILL ELECT DELEGATES TONIGHT

The second July meeting of Kingston Post of the American Legion will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the city hall. At this meeting delegates to the county convention will be elected and other important business transacted. It is especially important that all members of the post be in attendance.

Y. M. C. A. Open Air Services

The Sunday evening program conducted by the Y. M. C. A. met with good success at its first meeting of the series. Dr. Ellis gave an inspiring address and there was a good number in attendance. These meetings generally increase in number during the summer months.

The Rev. William J. Nelson of the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer is the speaker for Sunday evening, July 19th. The gospel in the open air is following along the lines of the first Christian workers. There is an attractiveness to the open air service and the attention is always good.

There will be special music at this coming service and all those who find an opportunity to be present will be gladly welcomed. These services begin at 7:30 and many come by auto remaining in their car throughout the evening's program.

Killed Friend for $13 for Good Time

Schenectady Youth Had $37 but Needed More—Shot Salesman to Death and Hid His Body—Confesses Crime.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Schenectady, N. Y., July 17.—For $13, with which he wanted to "have a good time," Hayden Smith, 17-year-old son of a respected family of Schenectady, deliberately shot and killed a man who had befriended him, Ziba C. Nickerson, of Chatham, Mass., a salesman for a Chicago hardware concern.

Then he hid the body, took Nickerson's car and calmly went to call on a girl. She wasn't home, so he took a pleasure trip to Ballston Spa.

Young Smith, in a cell here today, admitted all this. He has signed a complete confession. He had regained his composure this morning and ate a hearty breakfast after breaking down and confessing the most cold blooded murder in the history of the county.

"I had $37," Smith said. "I wanted $50 to spend on a good time. I knew Nickerson had $13, so I shot him six times to get the money."

Smith will be arraigned in the charge of first degree murder in September. The murder was committed on a highway leading into Schenectady. Smith said he had met Nickerson in Cleveland, that Nickerson had befriended him and they were traveling together in Nickerson's automobile. He and Nickerson took turns driving.

When Smith was at the wheel he deliberately stalled the engine. Nickerson got out to see what was wrong with the car. Smith pulled his gun and pressed the trigger. The gun did not go off and Nickerson raised his head and quickly threw up his hands.

But Smith meant to kill him. He fired six shots into his friend's body. Then, Smith confessed, he picked up the body, threw it into the back of the machine, drove down a side road and hid it under a heavy growth of shrubbery. Meanwhile he had taken Nickerson's $13 and his gold watch.

He then set off in his friend's car to "have a good time."

Two youths, strolling along the road, found the body.

A search for Smith was instituted when it was learned that he had wired Nickerson's folks for $50, signing his name to the telegram.

At first, Smith protested his innocence. Then he broke down when caught in numerous contradictions.

Young Smith got into trouble here two years ago and served a sentence at the Rochester School of Industry.

HEAVY FINES FOR VIOLATING FISHING LAWS

Detective James H. Hildreth of the conservation commission and Game Inspector Fred DeWitt of Kingston in patrolling the vicinity of Peackemose Lake and Sundown, July 10th, arrested Floyd Van Aken, William Smith, William Van Aken and Alpheus Van Aken Friday, all of Red-Bell, charging them with having caught 120 trout, some of which were but over two and a half inches long. Justice James B. Smith of Burke fined the prisoners $52.50 each.

Inspector DeWitt found James E. Sweetman of Naugatuck, Conn., on the same day fishing without a resident license. DeWitt charged Sweetman with having three trout less than six inches in length in his possession. Sweetman paid a fine of $30 subject to the approval of the conservation commission.

The conservation law in relation to taking trout less than six inches has been strictly enforced in Ulster county, as a number of others have recently paid fines for the same offense.

Commission Will Suspend Rickard

For Signing Dempsey in Two Championship Bouts Unless It Goes In

Reverse—If Banished Rickard Can

Go To Doyle's Thirty Acres.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 17.—Boxing today was in a state of war, with Tex

Rickard and Jack Dempsey in one trench and the New York Commission in another, as a result of the promoter's action in signing Dempsey to an agreement calling for two championship bouts, the first with an unnamed opponent in September and the second with Harry Willis next year.

Rickard thus laid himself open to suspension by flouting the commission's edict that no boxing man could do business with either Dempsey or Kearns until they formally accepted Willis as the first and prior challenger.

Rickard's action was taken with his eyes open, in the opinion of Broadway. The hot sports of that gay causeway contend that this was the first gun of the war and that

Tex has no intention of saying that he did not know it was loaded. As a matter of fact, he plans to fire another one today by signing Dempsey to a legal contract, as specified above, at the same hour the commission is conducting its semi weekly proceedings.

It is not likely, however, that the board will take official cognizance of the situation until next week, owing to the fact that its chairman, James

E. Farley, is out of town.

Rickard's suspension is almost certain to follow, unless the commission cares to go into reverse. It has done so before but hardly in an issue as important as the present one.

If Rickard is banished to the outer darkness, he probably will take the Dempsey engagement to another state and New Jersey is just across the river. He still has a lease on

Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, and it is no secret that the Jersey authorities are not as friendly with the local board as once they were.

Gene Tunney and George Godfrey, a colored gentleman, have been mentioned as tentative opponents for the champion. So has Jack

Renault, although the latter hasn't beaten a good man since Tosti said good bye.

This, according to Rickard's program, will be the warm-up bout

Dempsey needs before dallying with a gent of Willis's ability. Another, taken independently of Rickard's auspices, probably will involve

Bartley Madden at Michigan City,

Indiana, on or around Labor Day.

Tunney hasn't been signed.

Neither has Godfrey or Renault.

These are mere details, according to Rickard.

Considerably more than that,

however, is the fact that the promoter may prove to have the winning ace behind his ear. He not only has signed Dempsey but some months ago had the foresight to get

Willis's signature.

All he needs, there, is to get the colored man's agreement to wait until next year and he will have the commission standing on its feet.

He figures he can make Willis listen to reason by pointing out that the harvest moon will shine far more brightly for a year of active preparation for the extravaganza. This done, Willis will be sent before the commission to withdraw his prior claim on Dempsey and the sound of slow music will fall upon the ear.

But if Willis won't play, it will be war to the death and let the best sharpshooter win.

EXPECT AMERICAN ATHLETES

TO MAKE GOOD SHOWING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 17.—American athletes were well fancied to win many major events in the two day

Amateur Athletic Association championships, which began here this afternoon. The Illinois A. C. Chicago, sent a strong team into action, headed by Harold Osborne, Olympic high jump and decathlon champion;

Schwartz, Riley and Jones, while

Loren Murchison, noted sprinter, was another American entry of prominence.

Critics, however, were inclined to doubt whether the Illinois men had had time to acclimatize themselves, inasmuch as they only disembarked on Wednesday.

Metropolitan Golf Matches.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bronxville, N. Y., July 17.—With the name of Willie MacFarlane, national open champion, added to the list of entries, the Metropolitan open golf championship, postponed yesterday, was scheduled to get under way at the Grassy Spring Club here today, with more than 290 entries.

FIRE PREVENTION.

Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—

The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof.

Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand.

Bench Managers Will Keep Jobs

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 17.—Player managers have become such a vogue in the major leagues at the moment that some critics have contrived to look far enough ahead to see the passing of the bench manager altogether. Nothing could be less impossible.

In the first place, John McGraw and Connie Mack will remain at the head of the Giants and Athletics until such time as unforeseen illness or the infirmities of age drive them to the wall. That day seems more or less distant.

In the second place, the player manager must be the bench manager of tomorrow, provided he is at all successful as a leader. If he isn't,

some other man will have his job, anyhow.
